

Here is an example of a graph that shows that exactly 25% of the people prefer paper. One thing that's interesting to notice is that the corner of the red part looks like the corner of a piece of paper. Since the whole circle stands for 100%, the blue part is 75%.

Here are two graphs that show that more than 25% of the people prefer paper:

Here are two graphs that show that less than 25% of the people prefer paper:

